

Terms of Service

Last Updated on 2/22/2020

By using/playing Torn.Space, you automatically agree to our Terms of Service and community/server rules. If you do not agree to the Terms of Service or the community/server rules, please do not use or play on our website.

Please note that we use "Torn.Space" as reference to both the website and the development team.

Servers, Networks, and User Modifications

Any user found attempting to access anything that is not under "Torn.Space" or its servers will be blocked at the firewall. Examples of this are Telnet, RCON, Databases, etc...

Any user found rapidly changing connection information such as their IP can and will be blocked at the firewall. Users will not typically encounter issues with IP change limitations, but if you are encountering this for reasons beyond your control, please contact a developer on the affiliated Discord server.

Any user found to be cheating the games functions through disallowed means (3rd party applications that directly alter the user's gameplay experience) will be blocked from further use of the website. This only applies to direct changes to our website's functions, not general changes to browser functionality.

Rights of the administration

We reserve the right to ban or kick anyone off of Torn.Space if they break any of our highlighted guidelines. Users can also be kicked or banned if they are found to be causing critical damage to any functions of the Torn.Space website, especially if it affects the experiences of other users. User accounts and their progress will be removed if they are found to be breaking out Terms of Service, or breaking any laws regarding the consent of personal information (see our Privacy Policy for more details).